

Peace be with you this Christmas season.

I recall times my husband and I looked at each other when a few of our first four children were causing chaos and noise. One of us would remark, “And we wanted four!” We’d laugh and then try to ease the tension or join in the fun if they were happy noises. And we wanted more and added another as the four grew a bit older.

Enjoy these articles on peace and may they help you have peace this season and in the coming year!
